

2nd International Conference on

PANCREATIC DISORDERS & TREATMENT

September 13-14, 2017 Dallas, USA

Pancreas transplantation: The psychosocial assessment and determinants of candidacy

Deborah Valentino

University of Michigan, USA

Eligibility for pancreas transplant is determined through extensive medical, surgical, and psychosocial evaluation to determine candidacy. This presentation will provide an overview of the psychosocial factors considered when determining pancreas transplant eligibility. A review of relevant literature will provide a foundation for current practices. Case studies will be shared to illustrate common psychosocial barriers to transplant candidacy.

davalent@med.umich.edu