

30th International Conference on Insights in Ophthalmology

conferenceseries.com

June 07-08

WEBINAR

Dwayne Collins, J Clin Exp Ophthalmol 2021, Volume 12

Bridging The Gap Between Surgery & The Ocularist

Dwayne Collins

Oculus Prosthetics, Australia

In 2014 he taught himself to make his daughter's prosthetic eye. I now design, Manufacture & fit prosthetic eyes for people of all ages who have suffered eye loss from trauma & disease. In 2017 I trained under a world-renowned Ocularist & former head trainer at Moorefield eye Hospital London, John Pacey- Lowrie. In 2017 Google America made a documentary about the journey I had with my family and the steps taken to teach myself to make Liberty's eye. Since 2017 Oculus Prosthetics has provided treatment to many clients from all around the world. Throughout the journey, I became aware of the disconnection between the removal of patients' eyes and seeing them in my clinic. I would like to present my Documentary which is Five Minutes long. Then talk about From Eye Removal to the Ocularist, The patient's journey. I have designed a program, which is a Personalised Eye Health Plan that I use for all of my clients who require more information or who have just had an eye removed. There is quite often a large gap in the information given from surgery to seeing an Ocularist.

Biography

Dwayne Collins the director of Oculus Prosthetics, which is a clinic located on the Gold Coast Australia. Now he designs, Manufacture & fit prosthetic eyes for people of all ages who have suffered eye loss from trauma & diseases. He has several articles and abstracts publications.