

Metastatic L1 root compression presenting as an inguinal pain

Farzad Vosoughi

Tehran University of Medical Sciences, Iran

Abstract

We report a spinal metastatic patient with an atypical presentation of inguinal pain. He was managed with L1 laminectomy and posterior instrumentation. After the surgery, his pain was significantly relieved. This study underscores the importance of spinal examination to rule out spinal metastasis in those with a documented history of a known tumor.

Biography

Farzad Vosoughi is resident of orthopaedics at Imam Khomeini hospital, Tehran university of medical sciences, Tehran, Iran

