Editorial Note

Journal of Medical and Surgical Pathology (JMSP) is an open access journal providing a forum for anyone to read papers without paying any cost. JMSP's main purpose to provide current and latest update about Medical and Surgical pathology. The focus of medical and surgical pathology is on study of macroscopic and histology examinations and biopsies. Also welcome are papers on immunohistochemistry, cytopathology methods, and molecular diagnostics and review of innovative surgical procedures. I am very glad to announce that in 2018 and 2019 all papers has been published online within the specified timeline in volume 3 with 4 issue and in volume 4 with 3 issue. The whole time of an article processing run only 30 days. This year JMSP introduced many new editorial board members who are highly trained and skilled in their respective sectors. They also lead in their job and give best advice if there is any question during the processing of the report. Many new reviewers are also leading to our journal and gives correct review on time. JMSP in 2020 released volume 5 with issue 1 and now going to release issue to with research paper, short communication and editorials.

JMSP submitted a total of 10 papers of which more than half of them were approved in preliminary screening and the remaining papers were rejected due to high plagiarism or mistake in there formatting. The articles which are published are of very good quality and high resolution photographs inspire people to read it as well. JMSP post latest update in the field of Medical and Surgical pathology on the digital platform like twitter and Facebook, through this people will aware and update regarding the related field. They have all of the papers according to the needs and criteria of the present situation. We are really proud to be a part of it. I would also like to express my appreciation to all the authors, reviewers, the publishers, the JMSP advisory editorial board, the office bearers and IPA secretariat personnel for their assistance in the taking out yet another volume of JMSP and look forward to their unwavering cooperation in taking out the JMSP volume 5 in due course. Articles published initially go into the 21-day peer review cycle. Average running time for an article was further shortened to 40-45 days. The paper is released within 7 days of its approval. I would like to use this time to recognize the contribution of all members of the press during the final edition of the written papers and their assistance in making it a productive publishing house. The journal's won a lot of money and credibility this year. Journal members also seek to make something different and creative improvements in the delivery of the papers so that readers can still be involved in nature and using the natural resources for therapeutic purposes. Very recently they have decided to make it freely open and if anyone is interested in publishing their paper they can go through the guidelines given on the journal's homepage.
